The tour of the D'Arrigo Bros. (Andy Boy) facility will begin with a presentation by company food safety experts describing their vertically integrated product handling system that begins from the time the seed is planted, until their products are loaded onto their customer's trucks and the doors have been closed. The system allows them to have complete control throughout the growing and harvesting process to know the history and know exactly what it took to produce the crop. Food safety experts will explain their food safety program based on Good Agricultural Practices (GAP's), Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP') and the Leafy Green Marketing Agreement (LGMA)

The Farm is a unique agricultural showcase. It consists of an agricultural education center, demonstration farm, and a produce stand. The Farm is certified organic and is designed to tell the story of contemporary farming amidst the majestic surroundings of California's Central Coast. The tour will be given by a professional farmer who will provide information on how local vegetables are produced from planting to harvest on a small farm and the process to become a certified organic grower as well as the challenges of small farm operations.
